ROAD WORKER IS HURT; KNOCKED IN TRUCK'S PATH

Howard Martz, 56, Cashtown, an employe of the Pennsylvania Highway department, is a patient in the Warner hospital with painful injuries suffered about noon on Friday when he was struck by a truck and thrown in front of the wheels of another slowly moving stone truck as he worked on the Brysonia-Bendersville road. Construction work was begun there earlier this week by the state.

Although details of the manner in which the accident occurred were not available, a preliminary report to the state highway office here explained that Martz had mounted the running board of the truck, operated by Maurice Snyder, 239 Steinwehr avenue, to open the endgate. As he stepped to the ground he is reported to have been struck by a truck driven by Paul Myers, Fairfield, which had turned after unloading.

Martz was thrown to the ground in front of the rear wheel of the Snyder truck which had started to move slowly in order to discharge its load through the loosened endgate. The driver saw the mishap and stopped his truck before the wheel passed over Martz. The wheel, however, inflicted a crushing injury to Martz's back and pelvis.

Unable to locate a physician near the Martz home at Cashtown, the injured man was rushed to the office of Dr. H. M. Hartman, Chambersburg street. There his removal to the Warner hospital was advised.

First X-ray examinations failed to reveal any fracture of the pelvis. Additional pictures are to be taken of the injuries. Martz was reported to be resting fairly well today after suffering considerable pain during the night.

Paul Group, formerly of 331 York street, but now residing near Hanover, the foreman in charge of the highway workmen, could not be reached today for an account of the accident.

TO ILLUSTRATE FRUIT PACKING

With the approach of the peach packing season, Adams county fruit growers will hear a discussion on the grading and packing of apples and peaches when they gather next Thursday evening in the Biglerville auditorium at 8 o'clock (E.S.T.) for their regular July meeting.

R. B. Donaldson, an agricultural extension economist from Pennsylvania State college, will illustrate his discussion of the best grading and packing methods.

Questions on disease and insect problems will be answered by Dr. George L. Zundel, an extension plant pathologist, and John O. Pepper, extension entomologist. Reports will be sought from growers on insect and disease conditions they have encountered in their orchards.

Notices of the meeting, which were mailed today to the fruitmen, state there are "a number of other items of importance and interest to fruit growers that will receive attention during the evening."

Growers are reminded to arrange for inspections of their properties which are required preliminary to the issuing of permits for shipment of fruit outside the Japanese beetle regulated area.

Large Attendance Marks Aspers Fete

Large attendances have marked the fourth annual bazaar of the Aspers fire company which opened Thursday evening. A German band provided the entertainment Thursday evening and Friday evening the West Virginia Ramblers furnished music including a floor show.

Preparations are being made to handle a record crowd anticipated for the final of the three-day program this evening. Dillsburg's 45-piece band will feature the program.

Believes His Religion Opposes Tax Payment

Harrisburg, July 16 (AP) — A Campbellstown hardware merchant's belief that his religion frowns on payment of social security taxes headed today for a test in the United States District court at Philadelphia.

Amos Brandt proclaimed that belief when he was taken before United States Commissioner Sidney Friedman Friday on a charge of violating the federal tax laws.

Friedman held Brandt for court in $1,000 bail after advising the merchant to plead not guilty and waive transfer of his case to the court at Philadelphia. Brandt was without counsel.

FAVOR OPENING OF ALL SCHOOLS AFTER INSTITUTE

A resolution recommending to all school districts in Adams county that the opening date for the respective schools be set to follow the sessions of the Adams County Teachers' Institute to be held Thursday and Friday, September 1 and 2, was adopted by the Adams county Board of School directors at its regular July meeting Friday evening in the court house.

The board explained that this action was taken in order that the teachers assembled at institute may receive uniform instructions from the county superintendent's office before any of the county schools open. In former years school openings in the county districts have been scattered through a two-week period in late August and early September.

At the session Friday evening the board inspected and approved the budgets for the coming school year of the following school districts: Berwick township, York Springs, Mt. Pleasant township, Biglerville, Hamilton township, Abbottstown, Freedom township and Bendersville.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock (E.S.T.) by the president, Roy M. Raffensperger, Butler township. Other board members in attendance were Clarence J. Waybright, second vice president; Secretary Willis H. Lady, and Treasurer S. A. Culbertson.

County Superintendent Ira Y. Baker; his assistant, Marsby C. Little, and Lloyd C. Keefauver, superintendent of the Gettysburg public schools, also attended. The session adjourned about 9 o'clock.

Pair Held for Court on Gambling Device Charge

Kenneth N. Coon and Arthur Weideman, both of Harrisburg, were held for August court after a hearing late Friday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on a charge of setting up and maintaining a gambling device. Bail for each was set at $500 and both were returned to the county jail. Later Weideman was released under bond.

The defendants, alleged proprietors of a shooting gallery on York street, near center square, were charged and arrested by Borough Officer Glenn Guise Thursday after a number of complaints had been received by local officers on the manner in which the concession was being conducted.

S. OF U. V. INITIATION AUG. 5

Initiation of recently-elected members of the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Union Veterans on the next regular meeting night, Friday, August 5, was announced Friday evening at a regular camp session when four new members were elected and another former member re-instated. Senior Vice Commander H. G. Deatrick presided. Refreshments will be served on the evening of the initiation.

Honoring Major Hugh C. Gilchrist, of the Sixteenth Brigade, and Captain E. K. Wright, of the Thirty-Fourth Infantry, an appreciation dinner was held at Hotel Gettysburg Friday evening. Their wives and a number of friends attended.

Engagement of Angela Stock to Dr. Hall Is Told

The engagement of Miss Angela Starr Stock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Stock, 20 East Middle street, to Dr. C. Fremont Hall, of Williamsport, was announced Friday evening at a bridge party at the Stock home. Twenty persons attended.

The engagement was revealed with the presentation of the consolation prize to Mrs. C. Harold Johnson. Pictures of Miss Stock and Doctor Hall appeared on the top of a ring box containing the prize.

Miss Stock is a graduate of Gettysburg high school and St. Joseph's college at Emmitsburg, Maryland. Until recently she was stylist with a nationally known yarn company and is now manager of the Modern Miss shop, Carlisle street.

Doctor Hall is a graduate of Gettysburg college, where he was a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, and of the school of medicine at Duke university, Durham, North Carolina. He is now serving an internship at the Harrisburg General hospital. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hall, Newberry, Pa.

Those attending the party included the Misses Virginia Partner, Mindelle and Eva Sachs, Louise Hartzell, Peggy Zinn, Janet Ott and Betty Swope and Mrs. George Naylor, Mrs. P. J. McGlynn, Mrs. Mark Eckert, Jr., Mrs. C. Harold Johnson, Mrs. Hugh C. McIlhenny and Mrs. Earl Barrett.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. W. Barton and Miss Mary Stock of Baltimore; Miss Catherine Smith, of Hancock, Maryland; Miss Alice Culhane, of Danbury, Connecticut, and Miss Agnes Stock, of Washington, D. C.

WOODS' BOND FILED

The administration bond in the estate of the late Rev. D. W. Woods, Gettysburg, was filed Friday afternoon at the office of Register Quintin D. Rebert in the court house. D. W. Woods, Jr., Gettysburg R. D., is administrator of the estate.

JAP FINANCIAL DISTRESS DUE TO YEAR-OLD WAR

(By The Associated Press)

Ominous signs of Japanese financial distress echoed the war in China today as disastrous civil strife approached the end of its second year in Spain and Bloody racial terrorism defied British efforts to restore peace in Palestine.

A resolution by the central price policy commission urging the Japanese government to use gold and specie reserves to purchase raw materials was called by foreign observers in Tokyo the darkest indication of Japan's financial difficulties since the start of the conflict in China a year ago.

The reserves of the Bank of Japan total $800,000,000 yen ($232,000,000), normally sufficient to guarantee the currency. Financiers, however, doubted that inflation and loss of public confidence would follow if the government accepts the proposal. All functions of internal and external finance being tightly held, it was said, the value of the Yen is pegged arbitrarily and is not likely to slip.

Spain still was divided between warring armies as she has been since the dawn of July 18, 1936, when Generalissimo Francisco Franco's followers revolted. An estimated 1,000,000 men are in both armies. At least 1,000,000 have been killed, another 1,000,000 or more wounded and up to 5,000,000 made destitute.

Insurgents Advance Slowly

Insurgents advanced slowly down the highway from Teruel to the Mediterranean behind a heavy bombardment from warplanes and artillery, pushing their attack eastward against Valencia. Their immediate objective was Albentosa, an important Government road junction.

Fisherman's Paradise Lures More Sportsmen Each Year

Fisherman's Paradise, Bellefonte, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Pennsylvania's experiment in teaching fishermen to throw part of their catch back into the stream is becoming more popular each year.

Figures for the 1938 season at the state's "fisherman's paradise" on Spring creek disclosed today almost 12,500 visitors to the "fishing hole" where the state permits the angler to catch as many trout as he wants but allows him to kill only two.

Last year a few more than 9,000 followers of Izaak Walton fished at the "paradise."

Fishing at the "paradise" is done with barbless hooks, making it possible for the angler to throw his catch back into the stream unharmed. The project is fenced in and visitors must register their catch before leaving.

This year's 12,473 visitors caught 9,340 trout, but killed only 4,989 during the six-week season.

The "fisherman's paradise" is part of the state's program to conserve the fish supply that has made Pennsylvania a mecca for sportsmen. When it established the project in 1934 on Spring creek, one of the state's best trout streams, the Fish commission hoped to demonstrate that stream improvement methods would make an increased fish supply possible.

By use of artificial dams and pools and other devices the section of the stream was made an ideal habitant for trout. Then came the idea of educating the sportsmen to fish for sport instead of big catches by permitting them to whip a model stream under the two-fish a day rule.

That was a happy thought. From a total of 2,952 the first year, the attendance at the Paradise has increased by leaps and bounds. Men, women and even children vie for the silvery trout, throw back about half of their catch and like it.

The stream was heavily stocked with trout at the start but each year has required fewer replenishments. The sportsmen are catching and killing more each year, but the fish are multiplying even more rapidly under the improved stream conditions.

SWEET CORN IS IN DEMAND AT TODAY'S MARKET

Belated sweet corn and huckleberries, smaller than usual because of the dry weather, were in demand at the Farmers' market house this morning upon their first appearance on the stands this year.

The roastin' ears disappeared quickly at from 30 to 40 cents a dozen, while the huckleberries brought 25 cents a quart.

Tomatoes were more plentiful but continued to demand 15 cents for a pint and 20 and 25 cents for a quart box. Other vegetable products were on sale at these prices: Peppers, three for five cents; string and corn beans, 10 and 15 cents a quarter peck and 35 cents a peck; patty pan squash at five and 10 cents each; cabbage, five and 10 cents a head; onions, 10 cents a quart box; sugar peas, 10 cents a quart; new potatoes, $1.25 a bushel, 35 cents a peck and 20 cents a half peck; cucumbers, three for five cents; lettuce, five cents a quart box, and peas were scarce at 15 cents a quarter peck and 30 cents a half peck.

Gladiolas dominated the flower supply and brought from 35 cents to $1.50 a dozen.

Both dewberries and blackberries were on sale at 10 cents a quart box, although the dewberries were bringing 15 cents a quart at some stands. Black raspberries brought 10 cents a quart box most places, while the red variety sold for 15 cents. Currants and gooseberries were 10 cents a quart box.

Early Ripe and other varieties of apples were abundant at eight and 10 cents a quarter peck and 15 and 20 cents for a half peck. Pears were 10 cents a quart box and sold for 10 cents a quart. Plums also were 40 cents a peck. Peaches of improved size and color were 10 cents a quart box and 15 and 20 cents for two-quart boxes. Dried apples brought 25 cents for two quart boxes.

Egg prices climbed another notch and were tagged at 27 and 28 cents a dozen this morning. The price of home-made butter remained at 30 cents a pound.

Dressed poultry again was 35 and 40 cents per pound. Cured meats also were offered and home-cured ham could be had as low as 35 cents a pound.

The cherry supply was dwindling today but sour cherries re-appeared this morning at 15 cents a box or two boxes for 25 cents. A few sweet cherries also were on sale at the same prices.

Countian Kicked by Cow; Hand Injured

John White, Fairfield road, was treated at the Warner hospital for a dislocated and badly lacerated middle finger on his right hand received when he was kicked while milking a cow.

Eugene Eyler, Gettysburg, an employe at the furniture factory, was X-rayed for injuries to toes on his foot injured while working. No bones were found to be fractured.

Roland McCleaf, West Middle street, was operated upon this morning for the removal of his tonsils.

Miss Sara Larson, Seminary ridge, was admitted as a patient today. Discharges included Eva Boyer, Orrtanna; Mrs. Guy Warren, Fairfield, and John L. Noel, Littlestown.

14 Girls Return From Pine Grove 4-H Camp

Fourteen Adams county 4-H club girls and Miss Mildred L. Adams, county club leader, returned Friday evening from Camp D. R. Thompson, Pine Grove, where they spent the week with 4-H club boys and girls from Franklin, Cumberland, Perry and Juniata counties. A total of 62 young people attended the camp, the largest of its kind ever conducted in this area. There were five counsellors, two life guards, a nature study instructor and Miss Isabelle Myers, assistant state club leader, in charge of the camp.

Seven of the county girls passed beginners' tests in swimming by the end of the camp period. They were Joyce Keller, Mazie Bly and Mary Jane Routsong, Bendersville; Kathryn Donaldson, Orrtanna; Gloria Morgan and Martha Fleming, Fairfield, and Lena Coulson, York Springs. Lois Musselman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Z. Musselman, Orrtanna, was awarded a swimmer's button for her proficiency in diving and swimming.

2 DRIVERS FACE CHARGES

Glenn Guise, borough policeman, has charged Edward Wagaman, Gettysburg R. 5, with driving a car without an operator's license and Kenneth Woodward, Gettysburg, with failing to carry his operator's permit while driving. Both informations were signed before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer.

Riding Down Broadway in Style

Local Attorney Petitions To Bar Baltimore Suit

Claiming that it is impossible to determine the amount asked, J. Donald Swope, Esq., through his attorney for the purposes of this action, Richard A. Brown, Esq., petitioned the Adams county court on Friday afternoon for a judgment barring the suit brought against Swope by John D. Hospelhorn, receiver of the Baltimore Trust company. Questions of law are also raised against the statement of claim in the suit.

The affidavit of defense in the action which was filed Friday points out that while Swope is listed as the owner of 10 shares of the capital stock of the Baltimore bank and a liability of $10 per share is claimed, the first and last paragraphs of the statement of claim mention the sum of $500 as the amount due.

SENATORS WILL PROBE STATE'S PRIMARY COSTS

Harrisburg, July 16 (AP)—Governor George H. Earle, already confronted with a grand jury probe of charges against himself and 13 associates, today "welcomed" an investigation from another angle—by the United States Senate campaign funds committee.

Commenting on the action of the senatorial group late Friday, authorizing investigations of the primary campaigns in Pennsylvania and Kentucky, the Governor declared:

"I would welcome any investigation" the committee "cares to make, knowing how clean my administration has been."

He disclaimed "any idea what such an investigation might include" and asserted he had "no knowledge of any complaints that may have been made to the committee."

News of the Senate committee's action reached the Governor as he was resting in the capital after three days of conferences with administration leaders concerning the feasibility of summoning a special session of the Legislature to take over the grand jury probe.

Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, mentioned with the Governor in the petitions of District Attorney Carl B. Shelley for the grand jury action, was motoring to Canada.

Probe Not Unexpected

The Senate committee's decision to look into the use of campaign funds in the keystone state was not unexpected on Capitol Hill. Months ago, during the heat of the Democratic campaign which for a time split the party into two bitterly opposing camps, Pennsylvania Democrats took their troubles to the White House and to other federal officials.

The W.P.A. sent agents to check-up on charges that Works Progress administration workers were being coerced—charges that were levelled by representatives of both the faction headed by United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey and that of his long-time friend and political ally, Lawrence.

The senatorial investigation in Pennsylvania, Chairman Sheppard, (D-Texas) indicated, also would in-

INSULL, FORMER UTILITIES CZAR, EXPIRES IN PARIS

Paris, July 16 (AP)—Samuel Insull, 78, fallen $4,000,000,000 ruler of midwest utilities empire, died suddenly early this afternoon.

Officials said he collapsed from a heart attack in a subway train.

Insull was taken by subway employes to the nearby Paul-Marmottan emergency hospital in the Etoile district.

Mrs. Insull, in a state of collapse when she reached the hospital, said that when she left their hotel apartment at noon the aging magnate told her he was going to write a few letters and then go to lunch.

"I had told him never to take a subway because it was bad for his heart," she said weeping.

First reports when the former financier's body was brought to the hospital said he had been killed in the street by a hit-and-run driver.

Police, however, said a heart ailment from which he had suffered for years had proved fatal.

After collapsing when she saw the body, Mrs. Insull received restoratives and then at once sent a cable to her son, Samuel, Jr., in Geneva, Illinois, notifying him of his father's death.

Insull's Paris visit came four years after another more important visit on his dramatic flight across Europe to escape extradition to the United States to face charges of embezzling funds of the utility empire he pyramided in the heart of America.

In March 1935 he was acquitted of the charge as he was four months earlier of mail fraud charges which came to trial after he had been brought back from a refuge in Turkey.

Since acquittal the white-haired Insull had engaged only sporadically in business activities.

He made frequent trips to Paris. He was physically active despite his years.

DISCHARGE CIVIL WAR VETERAN FROM HOSPITAL

Jacob Winslow, 94, of Los Angeles, California, and Jacob Rush, 88, of Orange, California, the last two remaining Civil war veterans taken to the Carlisle hospital during the seventy-fifth reunion at Gettysburg, left the hospital Friday. Winslow had been admitted July 4 and Rush the following day.

COUNTY PROPERTY SOLD

The property of N. L. Slaybaugh, in Butler township at Center Mills, was sold at sheriff's sale this morning on the steps of the court house to E. W. Slaybaugh, Aspers R 1, for $1,100. The property contains more than one acre of land and is improved with a dwelling house and other buildings. Deputy Sheriff B. E. Bixler was the auctioneer.

ACCEPTS 1940 OLYMPICS

Helsingfors, Finland, July 16 (AP)—A special committee appointed by the Helsingfors town council today voted unanimously to accept responsibility for organizing preparations for the 1940 Olympics.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund W. Thomas and sons, Edmund, Jr., and Richard, East Lincoln avenue, left today for a visit of several days with Mrs. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Branfield, Alliance, Ohio.

MRS. J. W. BREHM, RESIDENT HERE 32 YEARS, DIES

Mrs. Mabel (Greenawalt) Brehm, wife of John W. Brehm, Chambersburg street tailor, died this morning at 3 o'clock at the Brehm summer home at Caledonia. Death was caused by complications after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Brehm was born in Chambersburg, a daughter of Mrs. Mary (Miller) Greenawalt and the late Davison Greenawalt. She had resided in Gettysburg during the last 32 years. Her home was at 114 West Broadway in Gettysburg.

Mrs. Greenawalt had lived with her daughter during the last seven years.

She was a member of the Christ Lutheran church and the Gettysburg chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Surviving Mrs. Brehm, in addition to her husband and her mother, are one son, John Greenawalt Brehm, at home, and these brothers and sisters: Harry Greenawalt, Chambersburg; Roy Greenawalt, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Rush Hafer, Mrs. Morris D. Smith and Mrs. M. C. Grove, all of Chambersburg.

Funeral services from the late home at 114 West Broadway on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock (E.S.T.) with the Rev. Harold Dunkelberger, supply pastor at Christ Lutheran church, officiating. Interment in Norland cemetery, Chambersburg.

Friends may call at the late home on Monday evening between 7 and 9 o'clock (E.S.T.).

Roy Patterson

Word was received here Friday of the death of Roy Patterson, 52, at his home at Spearfish, South Dakota, Friday morning. The cause of death was not mentioned.

Mr. Patterson and members of his family had visited relatives here last month. He had visited at the home of his uncle, M. Lincoln Trostle, White Hall; his cousin, Jesse E. Snyder, South street, and other friends and relatives in York and Franklin counties. It was his first visit to this section in over 30 years.

The deceased was born near Bonneauville and was the son of the late John F. and Annabelle (Trostle) Patterson. His mother, who was a daughter of the late Moses Trostle of this county, died about 40 years ago. Thirty-five years ago, the father of the deceased took his family to South Dakota where he died about nine years ago.

He had been engaged in the contracting business in Spearfish.

Surviving are his widow, whom he married in South Dakota; two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Sheffel, Ponca, Nebraska, and Mrs. Edna Wentz, Ames, Iowa; and his stepmother, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth Fleigle, Bonneauville.

Mr. Patterson will be buried at Spearfish.

HOWARD HUGHES IN SECLUSION

New York, July 16 (AP)—Howard Hughes, fatigued from a 'round-the-world flight and a round of receptions, got away from it all today, and left no forwarding address.

Checking out of the Hotel Drake by phone shortly before midnight, Hughes was variously reported to have gone to Rye, New York, and Saybrook, Connecticut, for the week-end. It is at Saybrook that Katherine Hupburn, an actress friend, has a summer home.

The modern Magellan and his four associates — Lieut. Thomas Thurlow, Edward Lund, Harry P. M. Connor and Richard Stoddart—have had little rest since landing at Floyd Bennett field, Thursday.

New York's traditional welcome, a parade up Broadway under a shower of torn paper, coupled with a city hall reception and a luncheon, kept the flying quintet busy on Friday.

At the World's Fair, under whose banner Hughes flew his 14,000-mile odyssey, it was reported they would have no further information as to his whereabouts as Hughes' job with that venture was finished.

Hughes' four companions also were in seclusion.

BAD LUCK CORNER

Philadelphia, July 16 (AP)—The intersection of Front street and Hunting Park avenue is fast becoming a bad luck spot for Jacob Steitner, 58, a truck driver. Two weeks ago he was held up there and robbed of $150. Friday, at the same place, he was held up again and lost another $150.

Miss Sara Black, Baltimore street, will attend the wedding of Miss Rebecca Helms and Brooks Lerch in Bethlehem this afternoon at 4 o'clock. She will spend several days with friends in Philadelphia before returning home.

volve Republicans and the Royal Oak party.

Sheppard said Bernard Davidowitz, chairman of the Royal Oak group in this state, accused Republicans of trying to swallow up his party in order to boost the number of Republican watchers at the polls in November. However, Sheppard added, Davidowitz failed to supply the committee with a written statement, and until that was forthcoming no action could be taken.

Earle said "this is the first time" he had heard of the Davidowitz charges.

Another complaint involving Pennsylvania has not been acted upon, Sheppard said.

More Conferences Planned

So far as the grand jury action was concerned, the Governor and party leaders in the General Assembly tentatively had agreed to meet over the week-end for further talks about their line of action.

Earle himself ruled out martial law as one possible method of balking the investigation. He declined comment on the possibility of calling a special session to bring the inquiry into the open.

The only Democratic leader to say anything publicly about this idea—John J. Kane of Allegheny county—said a special session would be "a silly procedure." He added: "The liberal people of Pennsylvania look upon the entire investigation as a political one, not intended to help the liberal cause."

Shelley meantime set up his machinery for the inqury by renting quarters downtown for his staff, and taking on four assistants. They are James W. Reynolds, son of Howard C. Reynolds, former chairman of the old state milk control board; William B. Keller, Jr., a law student; Benjamin F. Sellers, an investigator, and Miss Rosana E. Gastrock, stenographer.

A vehement defense of Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, whose order for the investigation brought a bitter attack by the Governor, came from the Berks county chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, of which the jurist is a member.

The organization adopted a resolution finding the judge's record on the bench has "always been above reproach" and his personal character worthy of emulation by "Governor Earle himself." The resolution termed "entirely without foundation" the Governor's declaration that the Judge was "one of the worst labor baiters in Pennsylvania."

DEATH

Mrs. Minnie Miller

Mrs. Minnie Miller MacDowell, widow of Cecil E. MacDowell, 929 East Philadelphia street, York, died Friday evening at 6 o'clock, (D.S.T.), from a complication of diseases at the age of 70 years. She lived in York fourteen years, going there from Littlestown.

She was a daughter of the late John H. and Eliza (Barker) Miller. Her husband died 38 years ago.

Surviving are one daughter, Helen, at home, and one granddaughter, Norma.

She was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran church, York.

Funeral services Monday morning at 11 o'clock, (E.S.T.), with all services at the J. W. Little and Son funeral home, Littlestown, with her pastor, the Rev. Charles Chamberlain, and the Rev. D. S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown, officiating. Interment in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown.

NEW BANK KEEPS VANE FOR OLD TIME'S SAKE

London (AP)—A wind vane, with a recorder fixed in the court room, has been retained for old time's sake in the new Bank of England building now nearing completion in the heart of London's financial district.

It is a relic of the days when directors of the bank were merchants and needed to know the direction of the wind because they were depending on the arrival of cargoes brought by sailing ships.

ANCIENT CHINESE GOT MUSIC FROM AIR, TOO

Chicago (AP)—Long before radio filled the ether with swing tunes and symphonies the Chinese enjoyed music from the air by attaching whistles to the tails of pigeons. They released the birds over their cities.

The Field Museum, Chicago, has acquired a collection of these whistles made from reeds and small gourds. The whistles contained from two to eight pipes each.

FIREMEN'S NIGHTMARE

Salt Lake City—The fire Marshall mopped his brow, fussed a bit about 95-degree weather. He opened the day's report. Then he jumped. There, in black and white, was this entry: "Cause of fire—overheated furnace." Mrs. Dora Henderson, resident of the blazing home, said she was just burning rubbish.

FRENCH SURE THERE'S GOLD IN THEM THERE COLONIES

Paris (AP)—Premiere Edouard Daladier's government has appropriated $2,800,000 to prospect for gold in French colonies.

French colonies currently produce about seven tons of gold yearly. The government believes modern machinery will increase production in Guiana, Guinea, Gabon and Madagascar, where gold is mined by primitive methods.

Hughes Eager to Contribute To Aviation's Advancement

New York, July 16 (AP)—An only child, Howard Hughes endured a lonely early life. . . . He played alone. . . . He had few friends and even today is described as having no confidantes.

Early he developed a passionate admiration for his father, who exerted an influence that became evident in Howard before he was 20.

Both his father and mother died within two years and young Howard became even more an individual who preferred to be alone, make his own decisions and plan his own life.

At 17 he faced the world—with an inheritance of $17,000,000 and a passion for accomplishment.

His insistence on perfection is almost a fetish. During the filming of "Hell's Angels," the super-movie on which he still draws dividends eight years after it was first exhibited, he junked a costly part of the film because sound pictures came in.

He could have dubbed in sound effects for the air shots and released the film. Instead, he re-cast the whole business and did the ground sequences, where the camera was close enough to identify the principals, completely—with sound. That provided the late Jean Harlow her first "break" in pictures.

Like Charles A. Lindbergh, Hughes resents attention of outsiders in his private affairs. He consistently refuses to answer questions about his friendship with Katharine Hepburn.

Unlike Lindbergh, Hughes was born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

"That," said a friend today, "may account for the enigmatic nature of the fellow. He adored his father. His father stood for accomplishment, having won and lost several fortunes before he struck it rich in the oil drilling-tool business.

"Most men throughout their lives are occupied with the job of making a living. Hughes does not have to worry about that. He wants to accomplish something. That passion carried him into the movie business and into speed flying. He feels that he is contributing something to the advancement of aviation."

Those associated with Hughes are confident that his present flight will result in a series of discoveries valuable to aviation which he will turn over to the industry without profit to himself. The flight cost him about $300,000.

Those who know him say that he was led to attempt his record-breaking trans-continental flight in January, 1937, by the fact that the commercial airlines were experiencing an unusual run of disasters. Hughes wanted to focus attention on flying as contributing to the scientific advancement of humankind and to the nation's economic life.

His record long distance flight was 7 hours 28 minutes 25 seconds from Burbank, California, to Newark, New Jersey.

Horlick Heiress' Host Called To Inquest Into Her Death

Toronto, July 16 (Canadian Press) —W. Perkins Bull, Toronto attorney, was under subpoena today to appear at the suddenly-ordered inquest into the death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, 61-year-old heiress to the Horlick malted milk fortune, who died at his home July 6.

The inquest was ordered by Attorney General Gordon Conant for July 26 after a conference Friday night with police officials. No reason was given for the action.

A private autopsy, performed with permission of her son, William, the day Mrs. Sidley died, found death due to natural causes, from a brain tumor that followed a spinal lesion.

The police launched an inquiry July 7, however, at the request of the attorney general, who explained that "the atmosphere of the case puts it on inquiry."

Later Joselyn L. Rogers, Ontario government analyst, said no poisonous substance had been found in a chemical analysis of Mrs. Sidley's vital organs.

The attorney General's order for the inquest came on the same day that Mrs. Sidley's will was made public at Racine, Wisconsin, disposing of her $4,000,000 estate.

Bull, at whose home she had been a guest for about a year, was bequeathed more than $1,250,000, including a third of the residuary estate. Her son received another third and the final third was left to various individuals and institutions.

Mrs. Sidley was the only daughter of the late William Horlick, Sr., who went to the United States from England in 1869 and made a fortune by discovering a special process for producing malted milk.

At the time of his death September 26, 1936, he left an estate estimated at about $17,000,000, most of which was left in trust to his three children—Alexander James Horlick, William Horlick, Jr., and Mrs. Sidley.

TAIL HINDERED TRAFFIC

Weatherly, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Crews were puzzled when an automatic brake signal device tied up main line trains of the Lehigh valley railroad at Penn Haven junction. Investigating, they found a dead mouse on an electric wire. But it was the mouse's tail, not the mouse they said, that kept the unit from working.

GIANTS, BUCS OPEN CRUCIAL SERIES TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

They're unwinding the thriller reel f the big league season beginning oday and running through next 'hursday.

The boys really have their sleeves olled up and are set for a good ld fashioned pier six in the Giants' eries at Pittsburgh, starting today, nd the Cleveland Indians' invasion f Yankee stadium, opening next 'uesday. Why? Because out of hose two sets may very easily come he lads who will collect the World eries cash when October rolls ound.

The Bucs go into their four-game et-to with the Giants boasting the tremendous" edge of two percentage oints over "Terrible Terry's Terliers." For the last couple of weeks hey've been about as hot as 42nd reet and Broadway these last few fternoons, although they were ooled off somewhat by dropping wo of three starts against Brooklyn, ncluding Friday's 9-4 walloping.

The Giants, on the other hand, ave been barely hanging on of late. lthough they topped the Cincinnati eds, 3-2, Friday, ending the jinx ohnny Vander Meer held over them, hat win was their only one of the hree-game series.

But you never sell those Giants hort, particularly when they send heir money pitcher, "King" Carl lubbell, to the wars. And that's 'hat they're doing today. Opposng old squarepants is Young Bob linger, one of the rookie standouts f the year, who already holds two ecisions over the Giants, one of hem over King Carl. After today's ame, the outfits tangle in a doubleeader Sunday and another single lash Monday.

The Indians, who should be warming up to next week's three-game arty with the Yanks, lost their hird game in four starts on their urrent eastern swing Friday. Conie Mack's Athletics nosed them ut, 5-4, on Ace Parker's payoff hit n the eighth.

The Yanks, on the other hand, are n high gear again. Lefty Gomez 'as in top form Friday, tossing a hree-hitter, and they blanked the)etroit Tigers, 3-0, in a game cut to ix innings by rain. Thus, they're ding alone on a five-game winning treak, a game and a half in front f the Indians.

The Cubs came up with fair to iddlin' pitching for the third traight day and topped the Phillies, -1, behind Larry French. The 'ardinals exploded a 14-hit bomardment to belt Boston's bees, 10-6. Bobby Doerr's homer with the ases loaded gave the Boston Red ox a 5-3 decision over the St. Louis rowns. Thornton Lee's flinging nd Hank Stainbacher's heavy hitng paced the White Sox to an 11-3 in over the Washington Senators.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 16 (AP)—Good afternoon and is Grimm still managing the Cubs? . . . Note to the California Chamber of Commerce: The Pirates are reported to be toying with the idea of training in Miami next spring! . . .

Colonel Ruppert pays himself only $15,000 per year for being owner and president of the Yanks which is considerably less than some of his hired hands draw down. . . . But then, as Victor Jones cracks in the Boston Evening Globe, nobody ever paid their way into the park just to see the cunnel, did they? . . . Helen Jacobs get in Sunday and the first string critics are going down the bay to hear what she's got to say about her "Pheud" with Mrs. Wills Moody—if any. . . . Mr. Harry Danning is getting some panning. . . . Ouch!

The war is on, boys! . . . Alabama supporters in Phoenix and Tucson, Arizona, are battling among themselves over the honor of entertaining the Crimson Tide on its way to the coast to play Southern California next fall. . . . Right now Tucson is one up, for arrangements have been made to have the team work out there. . . . It was so hot in Cincinnati the other night Johnny Vander Meer and Dusty Cooke had to sleep in chairs on the veranda—porch to you. . . .

"Beans" Reardon, the National league umpire, is a wise old bird. . . . You don't fool him on these hot days. . . . Before going to the park he hunts up a vegetable joint and buys himself a head of cabbage. . . . He soaks the leaves in ice water, places them under his cap and then proceeds to enjoy the ball game. . . . Those good-looking Reds have the dolls flocking to the park in Rhineland . . . . Personally, Bill McKechnie would prefer a little more "sock appeal" but he always settles for the other kind when he sees the attendance figgers . . . . Gabby Street, a smart old geezer, says the Tigers aren't winning because they miss the active leadership of Mickey Cochrane.

Where did the Pirates get all that pennant pep all of a sudden? . . . Old Tom Clark was the real goat in the managerial change at Jersey City. . . . The move that sent Travis Jackson to the Giants as coach may cost Tom (now a scout) a fat cut of World's Series money. . . . Don Budge may turn pro, but his brother Lloyd, who taught Don most of his tennis, thinks not. How's this for consistency: Marvin Owen, White Sox third sacker, can't remember when he's eaten anything but soft boiled eggs, bacon, toast and coffee for breakfast. . . .

40 ARRESTED IN PITTSBURGH AFTER RIOTING

Pittsburgh, July 16 (AP)—Police restored order early today in Pittsburgh's turbulent Northside after a second wild night of street rioting between races that resulted in the wounding by gunfire of a detective and a Negro and the arrest of at least 40 persons.

Those under arrest were held for hearings today on charges of inciting to riot.

In another outbreak in the Northside's West park—where police say the ill feeling between the whites and Negroes arose over use of recreational facilities—one man's skull was fractured.

City Detective Verner Wagner, 40, was shot in a leg as he and other detectives leaped from a police scout car to break up a mob of both races. Wounded in the same melee was James Lee Dixon, 21, who was shot in both legs.

The smoldering ill feeling broke out Wednesday night in sporadic street fights. Thursday night bands of white and Negro youths roamed the district and in numerous clashes eight were injured and 17 arrested.

Detective Inspector Walter Monaghan, who was placed in charge and who ordered all his available men to the scene to aid heavy details of uniformed police, said the outbreaks Friday night and early today covered a three-mile area in the Northside. This is a district of industrial plants and residences on a hill across the Allegheny river from the downtown "Golden Triangle."

Monaghan said that at one time near Friday midnight "several thousand persons were lined up at Bidwell and Allegheny streets, the whites on one side and the Negroes on the other."

He added that the ill feeling "started in a swimming pool in west park and has grown little by little."

The inspector withdrew half his men to headquarters at 1 a. m. (E.S.T.). Those remaining in the area had the customary supplies of tear gas in squad cars.

Police Lieut. John Joyce said the disorders resulted from a long dispute over the recreational facilities in the area. Lieut. W. J. Lavery said Thursday night's outbreak started in the Lawrenceville district —quiet Friday night—when a Negro youth attempted to dance with a white girl at a dance sponsored by the city bureau of recreation.

Fifteen of those arrested Thursday night were fined $2 each Friday and released and two were held on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Choir Festival Will Open Today

Cakland, Md., July 16 (AP)—The advance guard of hundreds of trained choir singers reached nearby Mountain Lake Park Friday for the fifth annual Mountain Choir festival, opening today and continuing through Sunday.

In the picturesque setting provided by the backdrop of towering mountains over the huge artificial lake, the choirs will give a series of programs which annually attract music lovers from all surrounding states.

All the choirs will join for two special programs, a rendition of the oratorio, Elijah, Saturday night, and the singing of the choral Eucharist Sunday night, the closing feature of the three days. Reinald Werrenrath, Metropolitan opera singer, will take the title role of the oratorio.

Contests for adult choirs, junior choirs, and male and mixed quartets will be held during the three days, with cash prizes to the winners.

Peak Climb Climaxes Truck Run

A rugged climax to a gruelling grind was this climb up Pikes Peak by the Chevrolet "long distance safety and dependability run" truck which has covered more than 50,000 miles of the nation's highways since January 10. The American Automobile association sanctioned and observed run exceeded by more than 20,000 miles any previous AAA-observed test. The above photos depict the ascent of the world's highest motor road. Upper left shows Stanley Reed, official AAA observer who accompanied the truck on its record-shattering run, recording a barometric reading. Upper right are the AAA officials who certified all records of the climb. Lower right are Harry Hartz (left) and Louis Unser. Hartz, widely known in auto racing circles, drove the truck over its thousands of miles, while Unser, winner of the annual Pikes Peak climb the past three years, was at the wheel of the truck on its ascent. The two center views illustrate typical road conditions which the truck conquered on the 12½-mile push from the peak's base to the summit, 14,109 feet above sea level.

Farm Tenant Plan To Be Increased in State

Harrisburg, July 16 (AP)—Opportunities for tenants, share-croppers and laborers to buy their own farms in Pennsylvania were better today by $300,000 worth.

Carson F. Mertz, director of the farm security administration in Pennsylvania, announced an additional federal grant of that amount brought to $568,000 the total available for loans to prospective farmers.

United States Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Mertz said, soon will designate three or four more counties to be added to Franklin, Tioga, Crawford, Washington, Centre, Columbia, Montgomery, Susquehanna and Westmoreland, where the program already is under way.

More Motorists Are Using 'Road Lamps'

The growing appreciation of road lamps, formerly regarded only as "fog lamps," as an aid to safe driving under conditions of low visibility caused also by rain, dust or snow, is indicated by the steadily increasing percentage of owners who are equipping their cars with this accessory, it is pointed out by W. H. Loudon, parts and accessories merchandising manager for Oldsmobile.

In 1936 less than one per cent of new Oldsmobile purchasers bought fog lamps. In 1937 the percentage rose to 9.3 per cent and so far during 1938 the figure has jumped to 14 per cent.

The effectiveness of the lamps, Loudon explains, is due to the type of amber ray lenses employed and to the location of the lamps close to the road. Together these factors prevent the road lamp beams from reflecting back into the driver's eyes. When road lamps are used, the driver usually dims the regular head lamps to eliminate reflection from that source.

Arrange Playoff Of League Game

Arrangements have been made for Cashtown and Bendersville to play off a postponed Adams county baseball league game at Bendersville Tuesday afternoon. The game is scheduled to start at 5:30 o'clock (E.S.T.)

The contest was originally scheduled to be played May 14.

John Payne, leading man in "Garden of the Moon," won five dollars from a fellow played on a bet that his jacket shoulders were filled out by Payne instead of by the tailor. John has a 43-inch chest.

MRS. QUACKER'S PREPARATIONS

"NOW," said Mrs. Quacker, "I'll tell the others just what they must do when I leave. No! I won't give them too many instructions, or too much advice. I'll let them have a holiday, too. I'll tell them they must merely take good care of themselves and have a happy time."

She said goodby to all her family and friends in Quackerville, and then she took a piece of moss and made a little suit-case out of it, edging it with twigs and making a handle out of a twig, too.

"I'll take my best leaf wash rag—although I suppose I don't even need to take that," she quacked. "I'll find leaves and water and everything I need."

"Maybe I'd better take along my downy hat for best—in case we want to parade up and down the beach. No, I think I'll get the benefit of the sun and air. I'll tell you, I won't take anything except the suit-case. I can fill that with Little special seeds and pebbles to bring home as presents."

They were off and in no time at all they had left Quackerville with its quacking ducks saying goodby to Mrs. Quacker, and had arrived in Puddle Muddle.

The Puddle Muddlers could hardly help smiling to see Mrs. Quacko and Mrs. Quacker wing-in-wing and so friendly. But it was true they did like each other, in spite of their quarrels.

"We're ready," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"Oh, it is good of you to let me go along," quacked Mrs. Quacker.

"We're all going to have a fine time," exclaimed Willy Nilly. "And now we must take one last look around and then we must be off."

To Probe Spending in Kentucky Campaign

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee undertook today to determine the truth of charges that public funds were being misused in the heated Kentucky primary contest between Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex), asserting the committee would make a thorough investigation, said the inquiry would be completed before the Democratic primary August 6 and would cover "the entire situation there."

The committee decided on the Kentucky investigation Friday on its own initiative. At the same time it voted to inquire into charges of an undisclosed nature regarding the Pennsylvania senatorial campaign.

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

WITH THE WHOLE HEART

PEOPLE who concentrate achieve. This is a day of specialists. Little success and happiness come to the one who doesn't know what he wants to make out of his life. He who gives his whole heart to a task soon learns that there are always new and better things ahead.

The writer, artist, or musician who keeps working to perfect that to which he has dedicated his life, sooner or later arrives as supreme in his selected work. Into that work he puts his whole heart, so that he product is an expresion of himself. To know his art is to know him.

One thing at a time—and that one thing well done—is what brings distinction and what little glory there is to conscientious effort.

No one who puts his whole heart into any sort of work can fail to go higher, even though that work may at the time be merely a "finding" job—that is, merely something to keep him busy while he thinks and plans. There is something soothingly satisfactory about doing things that click with the heart, and into which enthusiasm enters freely.

The man and his work are, in a large measure, synonymous Our aims and ideals, worked out, in time mould us into the character that we are. We must not only work to live, but work to create, to spread ourselves, and to leave behind all our efforts something substantial that can be relayed to others.

There is much that is cold and calculating where merely the brain does a job—but when the brain unites with the heart a sense of joy and rhythm enters into whatever the task may be, and the spiritual values of life enter to give color and beauty to what might otherwise be merely mechanical and material.

If a thing isn't worth putting one's whole heart in it, it isn't worth attention at all!

The Story So Far

Under the name of Abe Streeter, quick-fire Ankrom takes a job on the troubled Rafter T ranch to help lovely Lee Trone. Colonel Struthers and his daughter Betty come to visit, and Ankrom recognizes Struthers as an impostor. Kelton Drean. Drean is shot and Betty slips Ankrom her gun, saying she did it. Ratchford, the burly sheriff, holds them all for questioning, including Claydell, a neighboring rancher. Accidentally, Ankrom drops Bettys gun on the floor.

Chapter 14

Questions

In plain sight, blue and cold and grim it lay. The surprise had frozen them all to a rigid tenseness. Ankrom thought the pounding of his heart must surely shake him.

"Well!" the sheriff drawled at last. "Well! What parlor trick is this, Streeter?"

Ankrom grinned with a mirthlessness that showed the whiteness of his teeth. "Shucks," he said, "I feel downright ashamed to call that weaklin' mine."

"I shouldn't wonder." With heavy irony Ratchford stooped to pick the weapon up. Yet even as his fingers spread to grip it, Ankrom covered the pistol with his foot.

Grimly Ratchford straightened. The head on his thick neck came forward until his heavy features were within ten inches of Ankrom's. Unblinking, the smoking eyes stared balefully.

His words were low, spaced wide apart: "Where did you get that gun?"

Across Ankrom's mind came the vision of a girl from Peso Pinto rising from the crumpled form of Kelton Drean with one hand holding papers, a pistol in the other. This pistol!

He eyed it warily. Had the spurious Struthers' life been snuffed with this?

He let his glance rest upon the sheriff's. "By your tone," he told him, "a man would figure it was a crime to own more'n one gun in Texas?"

"Never mind airin' your opinions. I want to know where you got this gun."

"I don't know that it's any of your business, Ratchford."

"I'm making it my business."

"Boot Hill is filled with fellas that had that habit—"

"Damn you!" Ratchford swore. "You answer my question an' answer it quick or I'll slap the bracelets on you an' take you in for this killin'!"

"What evidence you got that I downed Struthers? Law says you got to have evidence before you can arrest a man for a thing like this."

"Yeah? Well, that law don't cover you. The laws ain't made for driftin' saddle tramps that go round stirrin' up trouble. Talk fella—talk, or I'll take you in!"

Ankrom stood there, his eyes like tempered steel, the lean cheeks drawn taunt. Trouble, he told himself, was like his shadow. He could not escape it—wherever he turned his eyes, there lay trouble waiting. To move amid scenes of turmoil seemed to be his portion. There was no escape. . . . save death.

Very well, then: he was through trying. He would serve these trouble-bringers what they asked for. He would give them all they wanted from here on out; he would hurl it in their teeth.

As the sheriff's voice stopped Ankrom's right hand shrank into a hard fist. He took a forward stride as the sheriff stepped back a pace and stood. His eyes held Ratchford like a grip; they were palely blue like ice, they were baffling, mocking, hateful. "What was it you wanted, Ratchford?"

'Who Hired You?'

Caution clouded the sheriff's glance. "I want to know where that gun came from."

"From the waistband of my trousers."

"Where'd you get it?"

As Ankrom was about to make answer, from the tail of his eye he caught a warning gesture. Just a tiny movement of a hand it was; a girl's hand—Lee's! Then she was not completely indifferent to him: the thought crossed his mind like light. Evidently she realized as did he himself, that Ratchford was out to find a goat and meant to find one before he left this room.

But Lee's cautioning gesture no longer held the force it might have held this morning. Stooping swiftly he came up with the gun his foot had covered; came up so suddenly the sheriff had no time to guess his purpose before the pistol's muzzle held him in grim focus as Ankrom backed to the wall beside the outer door.

"It didn't come from no dead man's hand, if that's what you're insinuatin'," Ankrom drawled. "If you're aimin' to find a goat for this night's work, Ratchford, you better pick on someone else."

"Any man can talk behind a gun," the sheriff sneered.

With a blur the pistol left Ankrom's hand and no one saw where he had sheathed it. White teeth gleamed coldly behind his parted lips. His attitude was a challenge to big Tom Ratchford, yet Ratchford did not move.

Ankrom said, "What calibre gun did the colonel use, Miss Struthers?"

"Why . . . a thirty-two, I believe."

"The pistol I just picked up was a thirty-two. It came off the ground near Struther's body. One shell has been exploded. Do you know, Ratchford, what calibre slug it was that killed the colonel?"

"A forty-five," the sheriff's voice came back. "I cut it out." A moment's pause, and then: "Like the gun I took out of your hand a while ago."

"Did you?" Ankrom said.

The sheriff shrugged. His lids concealed the expression in his eyes. "All right then," he said, "like the forty-five you gave up at my request a while ago—if it makes you feel any better to have it put that way."

"It does. No man ever took a gun away from me yet, Ratchford—"

"Hard hombre, eh? I've seen your type of drifter before—the kind that hires out its guns to the highest bidder. Who hired you to gun the colonel?"

"I didn't gun him. I told you that before. Now let me ask you one: How'd you know the slug that downed him was a forty-five? Mightn't it have been a forty-four?"

'Where Were You?'

"Listen," Ratchford said testily. "I've fooled around guns long enough to recognize whether a chunk of lead was thrown from a forty-four or forty-five, no matter how badly it happens to be battered. There's a difference in the weight. Besides, this slug was pretty smooth. It was like the ones your gun—the one you give me—shoots."

"That doesn't mean anything," Ankrom said. "You've got a forty-five yourself. It's slung in that shoulder holster under your coat. Mr. Trone may be packin' one too, for all I know. Claydell, here, produced a thirty-eight at your insistence, but he may likewise have a forty-five cached about him some place. I don't see any guns on these two cowboys, but if I was to judge them by the rest of you, I'd say they was each packin' a forty-five, at least. For a country that's shucked its irons—"

"Never mind the sarcasm," Ratchford broke in roughly. He turned toward the two girls: "Miss Struthers, where were you when your ol' man was shot?"

The unexpectedness of the question brought a startled breath from Lee Trone. Her eyes flicked wide and darkened. Instinctively they sought Ankrom's. He gave her a reassuring quirk of the lips and turned his glance on Betty.

The sheriff's procedure elicited no sign of dismay from her. She had her wits about her every minute of the time, Ankrom reflected sardonically. "A girl that has all the answers," he summed her up.

When she spoke her voice held that amount of huskiness genuine grief for her father's death might have caused.

"I—I—let me see," a white hand went to her forehead, rumpling the golden curls, a tiny pucker grew between her thoughtful eyes. "I had just stepped out the door there. Father had asked me to meet him out beneath that pepper tree; he said he had something private which he wished to talk to me about. . . ." She bit her lip: her thoughts seemed far away. "I'm trying to recollect—it seems to me I had just stepped out the door and crossed the veranda. I was leaning against one of those funny posts—"

"Come, come Miss Struthers," the sheriff exclaimed impatiently. I asked you where you were when you heard the shots. I'm not interested in the history of your movements from the time you finished supper."

Upon the big sheriff the girl from Peso Pinto turned wide blue eyes in which there shone the hurt expression of a child who has been unjustly reproved. "But Mr. Ratchford, that is what I am trying to tell you. I had stepped out on the veranda when I heard two sharp reports—"

"Then you did not see the gun-flashes?" the sheriff growled. "You couldn't say from which direction the reports came?"

The girl shook her head. "I'm afraid not. I was looking—"

"Yeah," Ratchford cut her off. He swung around upon Lee Trone: "Lee," his eyes were on hers probingly, "what were you doing under the pepper tree when Colonel Struthers got shot?"

Backgrounds of Adams County

By B. F. MACPHERSON

No. 48—These Presbyterian Cemeteries

DURING the last week we have been trying to collect more data on the old Emmitsburg cemetery, but the results have been meagre—to say the least. This much we do know, —- we can recall our grandmother McPherson speaking of a Cochran and Annan family living in Emmitsburg when she was a young girl. We would say from this that the alone named families intermarried. We mentioned, last week, the only members of the Cochran family (William Cochran [1693-1771]; his wife Sarah Cochran [1702-1780]) buried here.

Next we will deal with the Annan family. The members of this clan buried in Emmitsburg are as follows: Isaac Samuel Annan (February 25, 1833—November 10, 1909), Julia L., wife of Isaac Samuel Annan (February 11, 1840—March 18, 1913), Robert Lewis Annan, M. D., (February 22, 1831—February 14, 1907), Andrew A. Annan (December 17, 1838—November 29, 1915), Robert L. Annan, M.D. (1765—July 12, 1827), Mary, wife of Robert L. Annan, M. D., (1769—February 7, 1826), Robert Annan "of Annandale," (October 27, 1793—April 7, 1866), Mary J., wife of Robert Annan (May 4, 1809—August 13, 1883), John Annan, (March 10, 1803—October 16, 1877), Andreu Annan, M. D., (April 29, 1805—July 8, 1896), Elizabeth Motter, wife of Dr. Andreu Annan (November 19, 1810,—June 5, 1884) and last, but not least, Samuel Annan (December 24, 1807—December 19, 1879). Any information regarding this family would be greatly appreciated.

WE present another name which we met for the first time in this plot. The Jordan family—do you know them? Daniel Jodon, Sr., (1770—April 16th, 1834), Daniel Jodon (1820—September 22, 1843), John Jodon (June 1, 1804—July 27th, 1832), and Joanna Jodon (April 3, 1809—October 16, 1830), all are buried here.

If you remember our column from last week you will recall that we mentioned the Rev. Robert S. Grier and his two wives. The first wife, Elizabeth died September 25, 1830, aged 35 years. Evidently her sister (Elizabeth Grier) was very proud of the relationship, for in this same cemetery we find a stone with the following inscription:

"Ann Laverty
Sister of Elizabeth Grier
Died March 6, 1808
Aged 74 years."

We continue our discourse with a select group of the Scotch-Irish, the McNair Clan, as follows; Statera McNair (August 1, 1815—January 5, 1885), Samuel McNair (January 21, 1807—February 7, 1875), Laven, wife of Samuel McNair (August 29, 1776—November 30, 1842), Samuel, son of Alexander and Margaret McNair, (1764—June 2, 1828), and—

"Sacred
to the memory of Alexander McNair
who departed this life October 1
1816
In the 90th year of his life

Sacred
to the Memory of
Margaret McNair
who departed this life October 18
1817
In her 85th year."

What do you know about the Murdock family? The following members are buried in the Emmitsburg cemetery here:

"Mary Murdock of William
Died March 22, 1810
In her 65th year
Also
William Murdock
Died March 1, 1820
In his 76th year
Also
Ann Murdock of William
Died November 28, 1848
In her 92nd year."

Next, we give you the Porter family. You will notice that William Porter was within the age limit for service in the Revolutionary War. Can you give us his record? Buried here together are Eleanor, wife of John Porter (1749—August 6, 1773), John Porter (1751—October 20, 1775), and—who was born in Chester Co., Pa.

"William Porter
1729
Died 1802
Also
His Wife, Sarah
Aged 73 years."

There will be more about this cemetery next week.

Frank McHugh, comedian, is planning a canine "Uncle Tom's Cabin." McHugh has a spaniel named Topsy and will name subsequent additions to the McHugh kennels after the leading characters in the Harriet Beecher Stowe story. The canine christenings are presided over by the McHugh children, Peter, Susan and Michael.

LUTHER LEAGUE HEAD RE-NAMED

Johnstown, Pa., July 16 (AP)—The Rev. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., of Allentown, said Friday "our world is slipping—25 years ago the bombardment of open towns or civilian populations would have been considered criminal lunacy. Now it is accepted under the plea of justifiable necessity."

In an address prepared for the 45th anniversary convention of the Luther League of Pennsylvania, he said:

"We are living today for our own ease, our own comfort, our own profit and life is sinking to the level of cheap and empty amusement and pleasures. The better and fuller life demands that all be capable of wanting it and striving for it. For this we need the mind of Christ."

Robert R. Menges, of Menges Mills, York county, was re-elected president for his second term.

Also retained were Kenneth W. Dry, of Lemoyne, Cumberland county, first vice-president, and Norberth H. Stacker, Jr., of Wilmington, Delaware, second vice-president.

New officers named were Mildred Gergenske, Johnsonburg, secretary: Louise Snyder, Erie; assistant secretary, and Louis A. Kolin, Kingston, treasurer.

The new officers will be installed tonight, concluding the convention.

Mrs. DeWitt Appointed Deputy State Treasurer

Harrisburg, July 16 (AP)—Moving, and a change in jobs, were simple matters Friday for Mrs. Edith B. DeWitt of Williamsport.

On Monday, she will trade the deputy secretaryship of the department of Welfare, for the post of deputy state Treasurer, and shift her belongings from the education building to the main capitol, a block away.

Mrs. DeWitt ran unsuccessfully for the nomination for Secretary of Internal Affairs on the primary slate headed by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, who sought the gubernatorial nomination. State Treasurer F. Clair Ross, who announced Mrs. DeWitt's new appointment Thursday, was campaign manager for the Kennedy slate.

SESSION FOR REGISTER OF WILLS

Pittsburgh, July 16 (AP)—Pennsylvania's registers of wills will convene here Monday for the 11th annual convention of the Registers' Association of Pennsylvania. A banquet will be held Monday night and business sessions and the election of officers on Tuesday.

DESCRIBES LIGHTNING BOLT

Freeland, Pa., July 16 (AP)—How does it feel to be hit by lightning? "Just like a big hand grabbed me," says John Kalenevitch, who ought to know. He said a bolt hit a rock 15 feet from his automobile, bounced to the machine, and burned out the wiring. Kalenevitch was found wandering and dazed.

HOME-COMING TURTLE

Pennsburg, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Paul Transue found a turtle four miles from their home, and carved initials on its shell. About a year after, a turtle turned up in their back yard. Picking it up Mrs. Transue said they found the same initial she carved.

Marie Wilson will leave the table if turnips are served.

SALT AIR, FISH BECKON F.D.R. TO PACIFIC ISLES

Aboard President Roosevelt's Train Enroute to Los Angeles, July 16 (AP)—Salt air, big fish and a rest from many tiring duties of his office beckoned President Roosevelt to a rendezvous far out in the Pacific.

The President, riding his cross-country special train, rolled down from the high Sierra Nevadas this morning to Los Angeles and the last leg of his land journey.

Motor cars waited at Los Angeles to carry him to ship-side at San Diego, where the heavy cruiser Houston was ready to weigh anchor with the presidential entourage.

The Houston will take Mr. Roosevelt to the haunts of enormous marlins, sailfish, barracudas and sharks.

The President will drop anchor wherever his Navy fishermen advisors suggest that a 300-pounder might lurk. He will not head home until just in time to reach the Panama Canal on August 5. A four-day sail from there will land him back in the United States at Pensacola, Florida.

While expecting to keep his fishing line wet for most of the journey, the Chief Executive will remain in what he described as "five-minute touch" with Washington by radio.

Mail pounches also will be sent to the President's ship by Navy plane and destroyer, but White House aides indicated that only the most important matters would be laid on Mr. Roosevelt's ship desk.

Stephen T. Early, White House press secretary who will accompany Mr. Roosevelt on the cruise, will furnish a daily radio dispatch to newspapers and agencies. No newsmen will be on the destroyer that accompanies the Houston, as there usually are when the President leaves the country.

As a preliminary to today's departure, Mr. Roosevelt announced Friday night the appointment of Elmer Andrews, New York state labor commissioner, as administrator of the wage-hour act.

He had just returned from what he likes to call a "look-see" trip through Yosemite National park when he sent word to reporters on his train that Andrews would get the difficult post.

RURAL MAILMEN TO MEET

Clearfield, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Members of the Pennsylvania Rural Letter Carriers association and its auxiliary will gather here next Monday for their annual three-day convention. Ray Cummings, of La Jose, president of the Clearfield county unit, said more than 900 reservations had been made.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

DOUBLE DUTY

New York—Mrs Lucille Hall of Baird, Texas, has combined the roles of mother and student at Columbia university. Mrs. Hall, a summer student in the teachers college, is getting academic credit for observing the classroom behavior of her daughter, 13. The girl is a student in the college's demonstration school. As part of her psychology assignment, Mrs. Hall visits the school each day and takes notes on how her daughter gets along with other youngsters.

FIREWATER

Los Angeles—J. P. Johnson's car is burned and he's blaming a bottle of water for the blaze. The bottle lay next to bedding in the car, Johnson explains, and magnified sun's rays to a red-hot point. The bedding smoldered, blazed.

NEW ROAD HAZARD

Salt Lake City—David Buck drove home from a meeting in which he thought was his car. Next day he saw his machine parked near the meeting place. He hurried to police headquarters, found the car he was driving was listed as stolen.

BANK HOLIDAY

Racine, Wis.—A false holdup alarm at the First National Bank and Trust company gave employes a half holiday and the chief of police a headache. The alarm was accompanied by automatic tear gas sprays. The bank suspended business while the building was aired. Chief Grover C. Lutter ran into the gas in search of robbers. Gassed, he took the afternoon off too.

FAITH SHAKEN

Centralia, Ill.—"Can you tell me who stole my dog?" A small boy's voice coming through the telephone receiver asked Officer O. T. Bounds. "I'm sorry, but I don't know," answered the policeman. A pause from the caller. Then, "but, Jimminy! you knew it was me the time you came out to my house for that bicycle."

Movie Star on Vacation At Pennsylvania Home

Indiana, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Loafing, eating home cooking, sleeping and seeing "a lot of old pals," is movie actor James Stewart's idea of taking a vacation, but:

"Not having to shave is the swellest part."

Jimmy left his dad's hardware store in this quiet western Pennsylvania community to make good in Hollywood and came back this week for a 10-day rest.

"Shaving," he declared, while lounging in natty sky-blue pajamas and dark blue robe, "is the bane of my existence. I never seem able to find the proper time and the proper place together to remove the whiskers. Here I'm just letting 'em grow."

In a state of siege, civil law gives way to military law.

Man Convicted for 3 Deaths to Die Sunday

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Only a few hours today separated Michael Fugmann from the electric chair he preferred to a life behind prison bars.

Unless the Governor intervenes, the former German artilleryman will die Sunday night at Rockview penitentiary for the "Easter Gift" bombings on Good Friday of 1936, in which three persons lost their lives.

Aides of Governor Earle did not expect any last-minute action by the Chief Executive to save the stolid prisoner.

On Friday, Fugmann said goodbye to his wife and 18-year-old daughter in Warden William B. Healey's office in the Luzerne county jail. There was no last embrace. Prison authorities forbade that.

The condemned man's good behavior in prison won him special privileges and the title, "model prisoner."

Fugmann, proclaiming his innocence, refused to sign his lawyer's appeal to the board of pardons, saying the board could only give him life. His counsel asked for a respite until two mysterious letters could be checked. They lost.

In 1937 New Mexico had the highest birth-rate in the country, New Jersey the lowest.

AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS AT THE MAJESTIC
Monday and Tuesday—"PORT OF 7 SEAS"
Wednesday—"ALWAYS GOODBYE"
Thursday—"GO CHASE YOURSELF"
Friday and Saturday—"LORD JEFF"

FISH played an important part in the production of "Port of Seven Seas," starring Wallace Beery.

For the fish market sequences laid in the quay in Marseilles, was necessary for the property men to have 3,000 pounds of fresh fish on the set every three days. In all more than 10,000 pounds of fish were used.

Contracts were signed with fishermen in San Diego, San Pedro and San Francisco to supply the necessary amount of fish in various species.

This is only one of the thirty sets especially constructed for the production which stars Beery and features Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Beal and Jessie Ralph.

LINGUISTIC honors in a city of a thousand tongues denote real accomplishment, and Cesar Romero, 20th Century-Fox player, seems on the way to get them.

For the present a suave and gallant count in "Always Goodbye," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall, Romero has added French to his repertory. This gives him a fair command of five languages, three of which he was compelled to learn in pursuit of his picture roles.

Spanish, of course, is his native tongue, since he comes of a distinguished Cuban family. English came easy in his adopted country, and he learned German and Italian before his current role in "Always Goodbye."

Featuring Ian Hunter, the film also has Lynn Bari, Binnie Barnes and John Russell included in the cast.

A March of Time short will be shown with this attraction.

Those "Angels With Dirty Faces" really are little devils with dirty tricks, Jimmy Cagney moaned today. The "angels" in Cagney's new picture of that name dislocated his spine, but not seriously, in a friendly scuffle on a set.

THE popular pastime of taking chances on raffles is the pivotal situation around which is woven the amusing story of "Go Chase Yourself," Joe Penner's new starring vehicle for R.K.O. Radio.

Motivating the action of the story is Penner's penchant for buying raffle tickets. After several years of futile flirting with "Lady Luck," Penner finally wins an elaborate auto trailer, which is subsequently stolen by bank robbers who also kidnap Penner, bringing about a series of exciting and laugh-provoking complications.

Lucille Ball, Richard Lane, June Travis, Fritz Field and Tom Kennedy are seen in important supporting roles in "Go Chase Yourself."

Gene Autry will be starred on the Strand screen next Saturday in a film entitled, "Gold Mine in the Sky."

"LORD JEFF" is a persuasive story about the regeneration of a young man, a favorite theme of the Metro factory. As in "Captains Courageous," Freddie Bartholomew is the boy who learns his lesson.

Freddie's cunning and intelligence are used for a time by a pair of crooks. When he is caught and made a ward of the court, he is "sentenced" to one of the Barnardo homes, famous in England.

This one happens to be a school where young men are prepared for the merchant marine. One of the students is Mickey Rooney, who takes Freddie in tow. When Freddie tries to run away, Mickey goes after him, brings him back after a fight.

The smart old bos'n, Herbert Mundin, realizes that Freddie has the makings of a great student and appoints him coxswain of the crew although the other boys are giving Freddie the chill. It takes a lot of excitement to reach the happy ending of Director Sam Wood's well-made picture.

Stand-out in the piece is a new lad, Terry Kilburn, son of a London bus driver, here playing his first screen part.

On the same program with "Lord Jeff" at the Majestic will be shown Walt Disney's academy review. Lasting about 45 minutes and including highlights of the Disney productions in the past, Manager Irving Mirisch said today it is one of the most interesting releases from the Disney studio.

THE week of July 25 will include the following pictures at the Majestic:

Monday and Tuesday—"The Rage of Paris," with Danielle Darrieux and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Wednesday—"King Kong," with Fay Wray and Bruce Cabot. This is a repeat picture.

Thursday — "Woman Against Woman," with Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor.

Friday and Saturday — "White Banners," with Claude Rains, Fay Bainter, Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville.

Psychoanalysts have told Johnny Downs, lead in Paramount's "Hunted Men," that he is suffering from "thanatophobia." He fears from psychic warnings he has received at parties where clairvoyants were featured that he will die before he is 25, next October 10.

THEY'RE HERS, if she has to fight mother cat for them. Those are the sentiments of Nipper, female fox terrier belonging to Mrs. Stella Abrams of Philadelphia. Nipper stole three kittens from a neighboring litter and fiercely chases away the mother cat and even members of the Abrams family. Saucers with milk for kittens are pushed toward Nipper with long poles.

and Arabs that has caused at least 372 casualties since July 5.

New flare-ups of bombing and sniping ended hope of a return soon to normal conditions. A Jewish constable was ambushed and fatally injured in the plain of Sharon. Police seized two Jewish women suspected in the David street bazaar bombing Friday in Jerusalem in which 12 Arabs were killed and at least 29 wounded.

Czechoslovakia studied plans to widen the scope of self-government and solve the vexing problem of her minorities. A likely arrangement, it was said, would be conversion of government districts into provincial diets in minority-inhabited areas, each nationality to be represented proportionately to its numbers and each diet empowered to write its own legislation.

A week on the war fronts:

In Spain, the fighting effects neutralized without materially altering the situation of Valencia's defenders. Insurgents, blocked frontally, gained on the flanks in the west and in the north Government troops took the offensive and recaptured strategic heights.

In China, Japan's campaign against Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, lagged on the swampy banks of the Yangtze river, held below Kiukiang, 135 miles down river from Hankow.

FILM COUPLE SEPARATES

Hollywood, July 16 (AP)—Another of the film colony's "ideally married" couples was separated today.

Richard Arlen and Jobyna Ralston, former leading lady for Harold Lloyd, admitted they had separated, but expressed hope it would not be for long.

They have been married 12 years and have a son, Rickey, 3½.

CHARGES REBELS BOMB HOSPITALS AS TRENCHES

San Francisco, July 16 (AP)—Dr. Leo Eloesser, prominent San Francisco surgeon who served seven months with the Spanish Loyalist medical corps, today charged Insurgent planes bomb and strafe hospitals "as they would a trench."

"I have seen planes dive on hospitals, drop bombs and fire machine guns killing, shocking or wounding doctors, nurses and patients," said the 72-year-old surgeon who returned home Friday.

"The Red Cross marker on hospitals has been discarded. It was too easy for planes to hit."

DESERTS HIS PARTY

Tulsa, July 16 (AP)—Ellis Quiett is a Democrat with a Republican wife. He failed to win the Democratic nomination for state Supreme court clerk. So, he will campaign for the Republican nominee. Anyhow, that's what his wife says. His wife is the Republican nominee.

COMPLAIN ABOUT MOSQUITOES

Lansdowne, Pa., July 16 (AP)—The Mosquito situation in Lansdowne and nearby Yeadon is bad as far as police are concerned, and they want something done about it. Scout car squads complained to the Delaware county mosquito commission they were being "eaten alive."

ADMINISTRATOR FOR WAGE-HOUR LAW IS CHOSEN

Washington, July 16 (AP)—One of the toughest jobs in the federal government confronted Elmer F. Andrews today in his new post as wage-hour law administrator.

Andrews, who leaves a $12,000 position as New York state industrial commissioner to take the $10,000 a year federal office, welcomed the assignment, however, in the belief that "industry generally wants regulation and will co-operate."

President Roosevelt announced Andrews' appointment Friday night at El Portal, California.

The new administrator said he would not be a "czar over industry" if he could help it, adding that enforcement would be "by co-operation rather than police power, at least in the early stages."

The wage-hour act, effective October 24, will apply to all interstate industry a "floor" for wages and a "ceiling" for hours, designed to reach their maximum effectiveness in seven years or less.

The initial wage minimum will be 25 cents an hour, advancing automatically to 30 cents after one year. Thereafter it will be raised as rapidly as possible on recommendation of boards to be appointed for each industry.

The first maximum on hours will be 44 a week. This will decline to 42 hours the second year, and hours thereafter, with exceptions possible in the case of brief, seasonal industries.

One of Andrews' first tasks will be to appoint the boards, representing the public, employes and employers.

Andrews, 48, qualified for the appointment with more than 20 years' service in industry and labor relations. He became deputy New York state industrial commissioner in 1929, and was appointed commissioner four years later.

Randolph Scott, co-featured with Joan Bennett in "The Texans," is turning out to be a real threat to Bing Crosby, star of "Doctor Rhythm," and Lakeside golf champion. Scott recently became champion of the junior flight in the Bel Air Country club tournament.
